Scientology and Totalitarianism

When read in the context of Bruce Wiseman's letter, Laura Kay Fuller's Thesis regarding Scientology's ultimate goals - to "Get Ethics In On The Planet" and then "Clear It" - raises concerns. It discusses the meanings of those two terms, and what the world would be like if Scientology ever got it's way

This thesis argues that Scientology, as an ideology, is moving in a totalitarian direction. Totalitarianism is an extreme form of control of thought, behavior and interaction. The desire of totalitarianism is complete homogenization. As an ideology, it aims at eliminating difference, so that no variations can exist

The Swiss Report

Unofficial translation Since the report "Scientology in Switzerland" has been published, the State Security Advisory Commission (KSK) has determined that it contained some information which is outdated or incomplete. Based on this finding, the Scientology Church Zurich was sought out for their opinion (supplement 1). At the same time the KSK also made an effort to get further current, pertinent information from governmental agencies. The statements by Scientology and the augmentative clarifications of the KSK are found in a synoptic presentation (supplement 2).

Nothing has changed in the fundamental findings and conclusions of the report.

German Government Security Report

This excerpt of a security report by the German government in 2006 highlights the current strategy of the Scientology Organisation to infiltrate society via the education system. Due to the international nature of Scientology, this pattern of behaviour can 100% be expected to occur within all the territories they operate in

Reports have been coming in that Scientology's infiltrators are hard at work inside India, where poverty and deprivation allow them to use the offer of free materials to a far greater effect

The Corporate Veil of Secrecy

Scientology's Obfuscatory Structure

Larry Brennan was intimately involved in the creation of Scientology's web of entities, which make investigation of Scientology almost impossible

This e-book, is called "The Collected Works of L. H. Brennan", a man no longer under the control of Scientology. Indispensable for investigators in any country. Larry Brennan is on the record as saying he's willing to give expert testimony on this subject. The whole corporate structure was after all - his invention. Volume 1

POLICIES OF NARCISSISTIC RAGE

In this article, we argue that Scientology's founder, L. Ron Hubbard, likely presented a personality disorder known as malignant narcissism, and then we establish that this disorder probably contributed to his creation of organizational policies against perceived enemies that reflected his narcissistic rage. We illustrate our argument by discussing Hubbard's creation of an internal Scientology organization called the Guardian's Office

Infiltration & Extortion of Business

W.I.S.E

World Institute of Scientology Business is a Sea Org "Activity" and frontgroup for Scientology. Using business management literature by L Ron Hubbard and the same sales methods as the Scientology cult operation, W.I.S.E. actively encourages members to recruit for Scientology. Commissions are paid for recruitment and many W.I.S.E. businesses come under fire for forcing employees to undergo training at Scientology branches.

As victims of Scientology's cult scam are railroaded into working for W.I.S.E. members, W.I.S.E. members are railroaded into employing Scientologists. This has the greater effect of increasing the control the cult has over both parties

CCHR - The Citizens Commision on Human Rights

Described by a leading health professional as "a hate group" this subsidiary of Scientology was created in 1969 by or at the behest of L Ron Hubbard, as an everlasting retaliation for the poor reviews his book "Dianetics" got, when presented the scientific community for examination. CCHR actively campaigns to bring about the termination of all mental health services, other than of course - Scientology Auditing.

THE FRENCH AND GERMAN VERSUS AMERICAN DEBATE OVER 'NEW RELIGIONS', SCIENTOLOGY, AND HUMAN RIGHTS - By Dr Stephen Kent

This article critically examines the allegations of religious intolerance that United States officials and governmental staff have leveled against France and Germany (along with other European countries) for their policies on, and actions toward, Scientology and other controversial groups.

It argues that American officials appear to be poorly informed about the bases for the Europeans' critical positions, and that those officials have been the recipients of selective information provided by Scientology itself along with Scientology's supporters. It concludes by offering a preliminary analysis of this Euro-American debate in the context of 'international social movements' theory within the social sciences.

Dr Stephen Kent - Original Report

This study examines the confinement programs and camps that Scientology operates as supposedly rehabilitative facilities for "deviant" members of its "elite" Sea Organization. These programs, known collectively as the Rehabilitation Project Force (RPF), put coerced participants through regimes of harsh physical punishment, forced self-confessions, social isolation, hard labour, and intense doctrinal study, all as part of leadership-designed efforts to regain members' ideological commitment. The confinement that participants experience, combined with forms of physical maltreatment, intensive ideological study, and forced confessions, allows social scientists to speak of the RPF as a "brainwashing" program.
